

Transportation for America

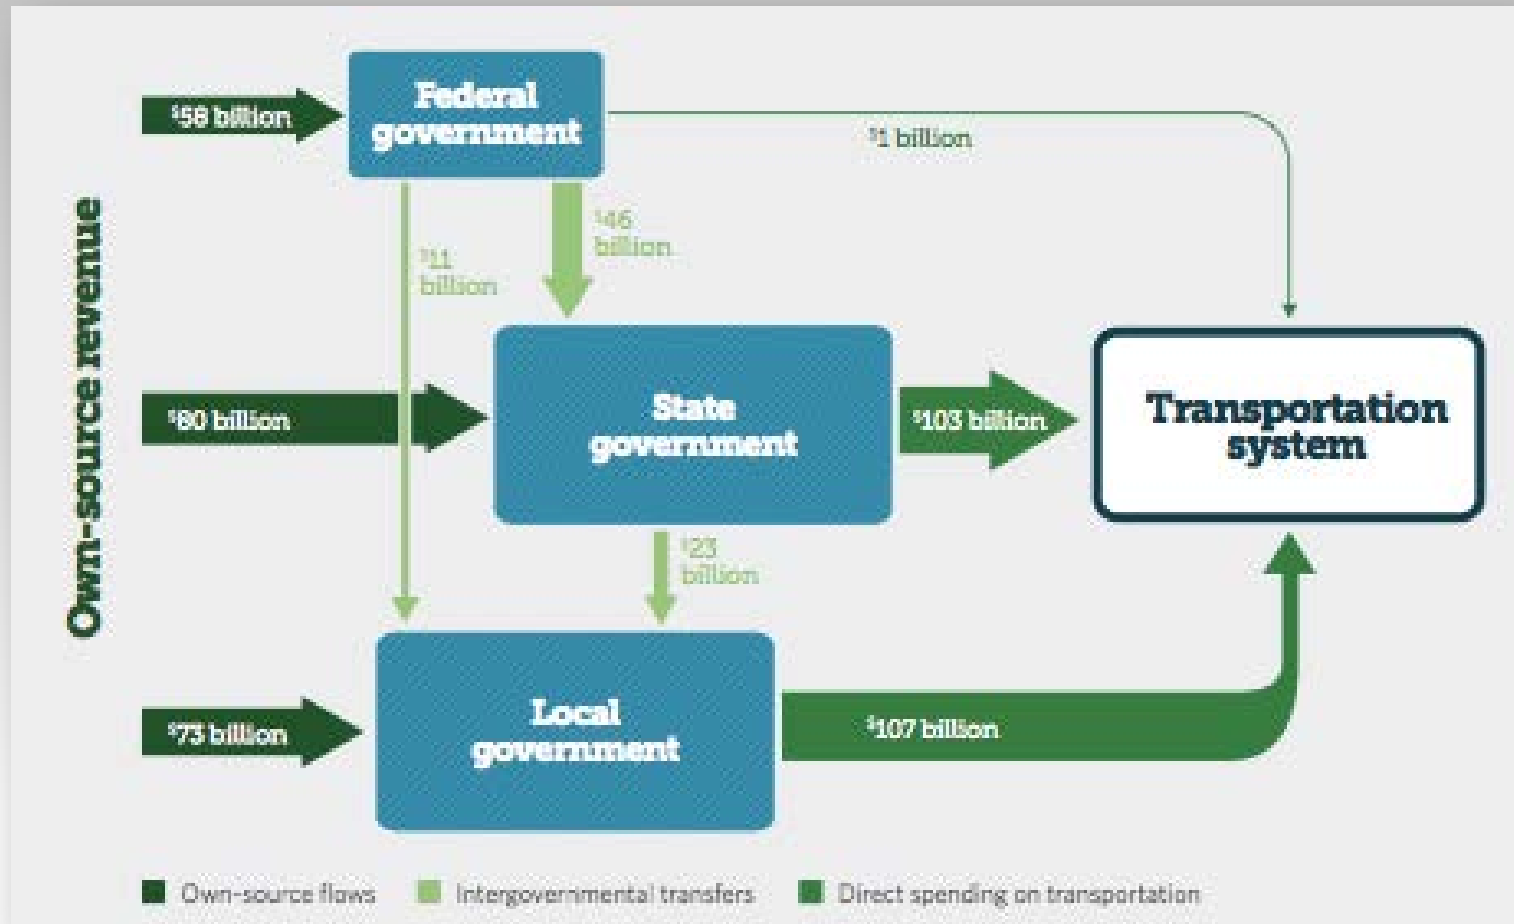

Funding Landscape & Innovation

NACTO Conference
Tuesday, October 31, 2017
Chicago, Illinois
Kevin F. Thompson, Director of T4America

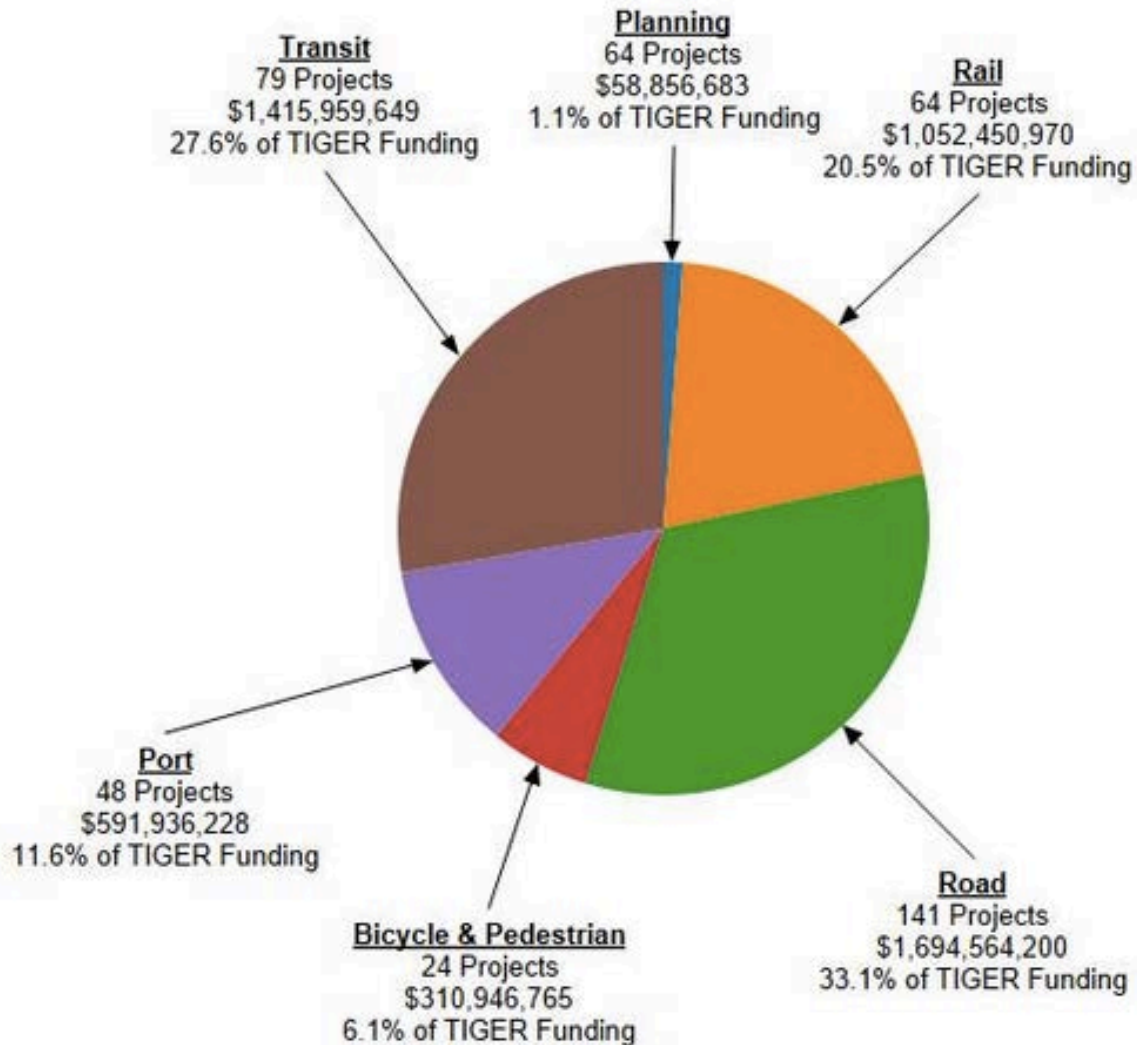

www.T4america.org

@t4america

Sources of funding

TIGER grants

Local funding

In 2016 voters said yes to transit

What $2.8 Billion Could Do for Atlanta Transit

BY JOSH COHEN | NOVEMBER 14, 2016

Nov. 8 was good for U.S. transit. Voters in Los Angeles, Seattle, Columbus, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Spokane and elsewhere passed ballot measures to fund or expand service in their cities and counties. In Atlanta and the surrounding county, voters approved two major measures to fund MARTA (Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority) expansion, the Atlanta BeltLine rail and trail corridor, and other bicycle and pedestrian projects.

L.A. Passes Ballot Measures to Build Transit and Fight Homelessness

BY HILLEL ARON

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 2016 AT 8:08 A.M.

The Expo Line pulls into the L.A. Cienega station.

Washington County certifies passage of Tigard light rail measure

Created on Monday, 28 November 2016 | Written by Mark Miller

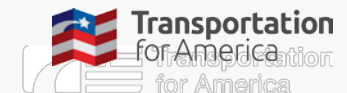

FILE - A voter casts his ballot at the drive-up drop box at Tigard City Hall on Nov. 8.

Why voters said 'yes' to public transportation on Nov. 8

BY DIANA MENDES - 12/09/16 09:40 AM EST

The Numbers

77

Measures across the United States

71%

of measures passed

$170 B

of transit funding